City of Dunwoody Welcomes New Community Development Director

Dunwoody – September 18, 2009 – The City of Dunwoody is proud to announce today the selection of Michael Tuller as the new Community Development Director. Mr. Tuller enters into this position with over 13 years of experience and is currently serving as the Planning and Development Director of Camden County.

“I am thrilled and privileged to be a part of the City of Dunwoody,” said Tuller. “I am looking forward to helping shape the vision of this new municipality in a manner that maintains its unique history while promoting a positive outlook for the future.”

The Community Development Director position for the City of Dunwoody involves the management of all activities and operations within the Community Development Department. Some of these tasks include planning, building inspection, and community and neighborhood enhancement.

“We are very happy to have Mr. Tuller joining the City’s Community Development Department as the new Director,” said City Manager Warren Hutmacher. “His extensive municipal development and planning experience will be a great asset to the continued growth and betterment of the City of Dunwoody.”

Mr. Tuller joins Dunwoody with extensive county and municipal planning experience having worked in the metro Area for communities similar to Dunwoody. Mr. Tuller has a Masters Degree in Urban Affairs and is certified through the American Institute of Certified Planners (AICP). He is also a member of the American Planning Association, Georgia Planning Association, and Institute of Transportation Engineers.
